MARRIAGE.

At St. John's Cathedral, Hongkong, on the 22nd March, by the Rev. F. T. Johnson, M.A., JEAN MUIR FOWLER, daughter of the late J. H. Fowler, of Rangoon and Gourock, to EDWARD FALKENBERG GROS, of the Deutsch-Asiatische Bank, Hongkong.

DEATH.

On the 15th March, at 84, Rifle Range Road, Shanghai, MARIE, the beloved wife of James H. Osborne, aged 35 years.

The publication of this issue commenced at 5.20 p.m.

The China Mail.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1901.

When the plague decimated this Colony in 1894, a good deal was said about dual control in sanitary affairs, and, in the heat of the crisis, the responsibility was shuttled between the Government and the Sanitary Board. We have no desire to revive the controversy. Let us accept it that the plague was a visitation of Divine Providence to punish us for our sanitary sins, and that both parties contributed by negligence to the insanitary condition of the Colony; and let us merely refer to the 1894 episode as a fact with an obvious moral.

That moral is this, humanly speaking, the sanitation of this Colony cannot be carried on in a degree approaching consistency and thoroughness unless the Sanitary Board is to hold supreme authority in its own domain, or unless the Government, with capable officers, undertakes the work solely on its own responsibility. For our own part, we would regret the disappearance of the Board altogether. To be effectual, it ought to be in the nature of a Municipal Council for Victoria and Tainshatou, leaving the villages to the Government. It ought to be sufficiently large to make it thoroughly representative, and to allow of the subdivision of the work among separate Committees and thus lighten the labour which is getting far too burdensome for the few business men now on its membership. But if the Government is not prepared to go so far, why trifle any longer with the matter?

Why not abolish the Board, and take over absolutely the control of Sanitary affairs in the same way as the lighting, policing, and other details of executive government?

A few days ago, we referred to Dr. Bell's threat, in the event of a certain resolution being passed, that, as Principal Medical Officer, he would report personally to the Government, the object being to have the Board's decision over-ruled. Our readers will remember Mr. F. H. May's attitude towards some of the questions raised at the Board, and the circumstances that impelled Dr. Hartigan to resign his seat at the Board. It is interesting to note, in an academic way, that the statements of Dr. Hartigan in regard to the unhealthiness of the proposed site of the Tung Wah Infectious Diseases Hospital (as pointed out yesterday by Mr. Osborne) and contradicted by Dr. Bell and Mr. R. D. Urnaby, the respective heads of the Medical and Public Works Departments, are now fully corroborated by Dr. J. C. Thomson, himself a member of the Government's medical staff. Dr. Bell's rejoinder to Mr. Osborne's sensible remarks are in accordance with the petulant schoolboy position he has adopted since he became an official of the officials. Following upon this we have Mr. F. J. Bodeley's official report on the sidewalks of Kowloon. This report is the outcome of points raised by Major Brown, R.A.M.C., during his tenure of office as a member of the Board. From personal observation, we can say Major Brown's remarks were fully justified, and we can only account for Mr. Bodeley's myopia by assuming he made his perambulation of Kowloon while wearing official glasses. In this case, it is evident that the official virus has taken full effect. So much for the official's and dual responsibility in sanitary affairs.

At yesterday's meeting, Mr. Osborne emphasized the helplessness of the Board and the hopelessness of carrying out the most ordinary sanitary precautions against disease by calling attention to the decision of the Legislative Council to over-ride the Sanitary Board's order for the lime-washing of houses in outlying villages. The merits of the order do not now concern us. It may or may not be a hardship for a Chinaman to be compelled to keep his house clean, but the Sanitary Board having decided that this precaution was necessary for the protection of the public health, then neither the Legislative Council, nor any other body, nor any official, except His Excellency the Governor, should have the right to say that order shall not be executed. We think we have made it perfectly clear that dualism exists in this Colony's sanitary department. The unofficial members of the Sanitary Board are as helpless as their prototypes in the Legislative Council, only the case of the Sanitary Board is worse because of the avowed hostility of the Official Heads of Departments and the power of the Legislative Council to revise and rescind its decisions.

AN HONEST MEDICINE FOR LA GRIPPE.

GEORGE W. Waitt, of South Gardiner, Mo., 'have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of cough medicine, but nothing has done the thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturer of an honest medicine. For sale by All Dealers, Watson & Co., General Agents.

At the meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday, Dr. Bell (the Chairman) said the Board had been asked to advise as to the matter of bath-houses for coolies, and to select some sites. He thought there was no question whatever that it was a very good scheme indeed, and he thought the work should be done by the Government. If they waited for private enterprise in the matter it would be a long time in coming. He thought the Government might start with two baths—one east and one west. He suggested the appointment of a committee to select sites. Mr. Osborne proposed the appointment of Dr. Clark and Mr. Chatham. Mr. Fung Wa Chuen seconded, and the motion was carried.

He suggested the appointment of a committee to select sites. Mr. Osborne proposed the appointment of Dr. Clark and Mr. Chatham. Mr. Fung Wa Chuen seconded, and the motion was carried.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Notes by the Way.
One case of plague and one death during the past twenty-four hours. Ditto, smallpox. Both Chinese.

A coffee stole a couple of steel spinules from the Cotton Mill Company yesterday. He has now entered upon three weeks' prison regime.

To-day, a private ricksha coolie, for snatching $25 from the hand of a silver-smith who was obtaining change in a shop, was removed from temptation for the space of six weeks.

It is expected that Admiral Seymour, who has gone south to meet the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall at Singapore, will take the Cathartion, Goliath, Argonaut, and Endymion as a convoy squadron.

Many of our readers will be glad to learn that Mr. William Powell (the head of Messrs Powell and Co.), who had to leave the Colony about two years ago owing to persistent ill-health, has completely recovered. He sends us an interesting narrative on 'The Funeral of Queen Victoria', which we are unable to publish owing to its having been anticipated by mail papers.

Inspector L. E. Breit succeeded in convicting a couple of opium divan keepers to-day for gross breaches of the law. In one house, at 97 Wellington Street, there were 29 persons where there was only accommodation for 7, and in the other at 30 Possession Street, 38 persons were found where only 9 should have been. Each of the divan keepers was fined $50.

An Unlucky Firm.
To be twice burgled in the course of as many months is a misfortune which falls to the lot of very few firms, but an instance of the kind was revealed yesterday morning, when it was discovered that the shop at No. 10 Queen's Road Central, occupied by Messrs Drex and Co., had been entered surreptitiously during the night time, and watches of the total value of $2500 taken away. Sergeant Morrison, and one or two Chinese of the detective staff were at once put on the 'job' and the result of their inquiries was most gratifying. As is usual in cases of the kind, they visited a few of the Chinese pawnshops and one of the constables detained in custody a couple of men who were attempting to pawn a watch. Following up this clue, the Sergeant succeeded in arresting another man, and in the house in which the arrest took place, was found a basket containing 180 of the stolen 'tickers.' No amount of persuasion would induce the men to reveal where the other half of the stolen property was. It appeared, from an examination of the place, that the thieves on this occasion had effected an entrance to the shop by means of a fan-light at the back. The three men, Ho Sui Cheong, second-hand furniture dealer, Hollywood Road, Ho San Kau and Leung Po, coolies, were brought up at the Magistrate's to-day. They were charged with feloniously breaking and entering the shop at No. 10 Queen's Road, and stealing three gold watches, 233 silver watches and 116 metal watches. The first and second defendants denied the charge, but the third defendant pleaded guilty. The case was remanded.

Pen Portraits of Notable Men.
Mr. Arthur H. Adams writes as follows in the Auckland Weekly News in the course of an article on 'Peking under the Allied Powers':—General Gascoigne is often present. The commander of the British forces in China is a fine type of the British soldier. His tall, imposing form bespeaks the soldier, and his bronzed bluff face, with grey moustache and honest blue eyes, completes a fine personality. The great 'I.G.' sometimes is seen. Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of the Chinese Customs, is a name spoken of throughout China with respect that is almost awe. He and the Dowager Empress are the only two autocrats of this East. He is reported to be immensely rich; he is the only foreigner that the Chinese, from the lowest coolie to the Emperor, respect and admire. But in person the great 'I.G.' is a disappointment. He is a little man of quite ordinary appearance. His bent shoulders, his shrivelling, insignificant ways, are in curious contrast to the great and deserved reputation he bears. No one speaking to the little old man, with his ordinary face, with its white beard, would guess him to be what he is. And Sir Claude MacDonnell, the British Minister at Peking, is, from a personal point of view another disappointment. Imagine a tall man, thin to the verge of emaciation, with long drooping brown moustache, which he continually nervously fingerings, blue eyes, set in a long, weak face, a penchant for getting curled up into undignified and comfortable attitudes, and a jerky gesticulation as he speaks—and you have Sir Claude MacDonnell. He looks a weak man—that strength and sagacity that one looks for in a British diplomatist are sadly lacking in his appearance, and from what I have heard in Peking, it seems a pity that Great Britain does not consider her interests in the East of sufficient importance to be represented by a stronger man.

Quarantine at Saigon.
Messrs Lambe and Rogge, write to us under this date:—We have just received a telegram from Wm. G. Hale and Co., Saigon, that quarantine established at Saigon against Singapore has been taken off.

Hongkong Jubilee Memorial.
The plans for the Victoria Hospital for women and children were laid on the table at the meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday. On the motion of Dr. Clark, after inspection by the Board, they were approved, and the Secretary directed to return them to the Government.

The Pacific Passenger Trade.
It is stated that the two 10,000-ton, 18-knot, twin-screw steamers, the Siberia and Korea, that have been building for the Pacific Mail Co., will shortly be ready to take the places of the City of Peking and the unfortunate City of Rio de Janeiro. Each can carry 200 first-class passengers, and cost £400,000.

Shanghai Tug-boat Co.
The report for 1900 of the Shanghai Tugboat Co., Ltd., shows a divisible balance of profit of Ths 70,727, out of which it is proposed to place Ths 63,000 to reserve, pay a final dividend of five per cent making 20 per cent for the year, and carry forward Ths 2,727. The capital of the Company is Ths 100,000, and the reserve fund, with this addition, will be Ths 155,000.

Virtuous Shanghai.
The agitation against the lotteries of Shanghai is gathering in strength. The Consular Body, having taken up the matter, is unanimously of opinion that steps should be taken for the suppression of lotteries in the Foreign Settlement. One of our Shanghai contemporaries refers in one column to the lotteries as a 'pestilential nuisance', and in another publishes the advertisement of one of the pests! It is the old story of the Pharisee and the sinner.

British Action at Tientsin.
A correspondent writes from Tientsin on the 9th instant to the N.-C. Daily News as follows:—We Britishers are actually asserting ourselves at last. The Russian flags were removed back by our men yesterday from all the railway property, and placed outside the limits of all the ground that the Imperial Chinese Railways had secured for sidings, etc., before the outbreak of hostilities. The Russians at once protested. We sent over more still; and this
